FOOLED THE POLICEMEN. Two Jokers In a Lofty Perch Finally that-

Two young men, supposedly in a spirit of mischief, climbed up a big pole of the Bell Telephone company on Naudian street, between Twenty-first and Twenty-second, before daylight and established themselves in the "crow's nest" just below the first of the wire bearing crossbars on a recent morning. There they sat and sang songs until a passing milkman called up and asked what they were doing. "Oh, ask of the man in the moon, warbled one, and the other said that they were hunting for the milky way. The milkman left in disgust and notified a policeman of the Fifth-district that a pair of nuisances were holding forth 'iu a cage on a pole." The policeman summoned a brother patrolman, and the two went to the place designated, where the jokers had changed their programme and remained as silent as responded the singer up the pole. The threat was too much for the bluecoats, so they replied that they would wait below until the men got tired of being up in the air and came down of their own accord. They were answered with a laugh, but sat down on the curbstone and chewed tobacco. A crowd collested, and the men up above entertained it with making jokes at the expense of the patient guardians of the peace. The crowd was augmented by hundreds or reople on their way to work, who stood and watched the strange spectacle until their neeks got kinks in them. The entertainers meanwhile were not igle and in warded their sightseers with a variety of tunny performances in their elavated and confined quarters.

An Attenuated Horse That Excited an Officer's Unnecessary Sympathy. A South Chicago policeman came across an attenuated sorrel horse tied to a hitching post the other day. He wait-
